Queer pianist and composer Filippo Deorsola presents Anaphora, a piano trio that “switches and mixes several genres and rhythms in an incredibly mastered and enjoyable way” [Best of Jazz, US]. The music embodies a practice where non-European musical traditions are explored as rhythmical and timbrical spaces that can subvert, redirect and open up the trio's interplay to unexpected grooves and surprising textures. Inviting listeners into a captivating exploration of sound.

"Bringing something truly unheard" (Jazz Magazine France 2022), Anaphora has released its debut album, Lexicon I (Auan Records), in 2022, garnering positive review internationally. The band has won is amongst the recipients of Italy Music Export 2022 and Culture Moves Europe 2023 and their research has been supported by various cultural institutions such as SENA, VGC, Goethe, Keep An Eye The Records 2024. They are set to release their next album in January 2025.
